Who was Craig Roseneder?

The award is named in honour of the late Craig Roseneder, who was devoted to the development of a safer road transport industry. His passion, excellence and his experience combined to create a unique approach to the resolution of challenges which confronted the industry.

Such projects included the early development of the TruckSafe accreditation scheme with the introduction of the first accredited module, maintenance, and industry specific fatigue management programs.

Craig worked in the development of the industry's standards which addressed the need for improved safety, maximum productivity and world's best practice of road freight efficiency.
